

ABSTRACT

A control method for an arc welding apparatus having a function of prohibiting detection of neck based on a change amount of welding voltage and 5 an arc welding apparatus using the method. Thus, since neck determination can be carried out accurately by preventing wrong detection of neck, it is possible to reduce the occurrence of spatter.